ROBERTO BOLLI, M.D.

Dr. Bolli graduated from the University of Perugia (Italy) in 1976. He completed a research Fellowship at the NHLBI (1978-80) and a clinical Fellowship in Cardiology at Baylor College of Medicine (1981-83). In 1983, he joined the Faculty at Baylor College of Medicine, where he rose to the rank of Professor with tenure. In 1994, he became Chief of the Division of Cardiovascular Medicine at the University of Louisville. He is also Director of the Institute of Molecular Cardiology, Scientific Director of the Cardiovascular Innovation Institute, Executive Vice Chairman of the Department of Medicine, a Distinguished University Scholar, and the Jewish Hospital Distinguished Chair in Cardiology. Twice at two different institutions (Baylor and University of Louisville), Dr. Bolli developed a leading research program starting from zero.

NIH activities: Member of the CVB Study Section, NHLBI Program Project Review Committee, and NHLBI Advisory Council. AHA activities: Chair of: Pathophysiology Review Committee, Council on Basic Cardiovascular Sciences, Distinguished Scientist Selection Committee, and Council Operations Committee; member of numerous committees; member of the Board of Directors. International Society for Heart Research: Secretary General, Treasurer, and President. Editorial activities: Dr. Bolli has served as Associate Editor of the Journal of Molecular and Cellular Cardiology, and is presently Guest Editor of Circulation and Editor-in-Chief of Circulation Research.

Dr. Bolli is PI in several NIH grants, including a U24 grant (CAESAR Consortium), a P01 grant, and a UM1 grant (CCTRN). He has published 375 papers including 250 original articles. Among the original articles, 37 have appeared in Circulation Research, 12 in PNAS, 7 in JCI, and 29 in Circulation. Thirty-five of his papers have been cited more than 100 times, 16 more than 200 times, and 14 more than 300 times; total number of citations, 28,999; Hirsch factor, 94.

Dr. Bolli's research has focused on the mechanisms responsible for myocardial ischemia/reperfusion injury and on the development of cardioprotective strategies. His earlier work established a fundamental role of reactive oxygen species in the pathogenesis of myocardial "stunning", a concept that is now accepted as a proven hypothesis. Subsequently, he identified the signal transduction pathways and the cardioprotective genes responsible for the late phase of myocardial "preconditioning", thereby elucidating the molecular basis of this adaptation of the heart to stress. His discovery that the cardioprotection afforded by preconditioning is mediated by two proteins commonly thought to be detrimental (inducible NO synthase and cyclooxygenase-2) has impelled a reassessment of current paradigms regarding these enzymes and has paved the way for developing novel pharmacologic or genetic therapeutic strategies in patients with coronary artery disease. He is currently investigating the use of cell therapy to repair infarcted myocardium. He led SCIPIO (Stem Cell Infusion in Patients with Ischemic Cardiomyopathy), the first study ever of cardiac stem cells in patients, and is currently leading a Clinical Center of the NIH-funded network, CCTRN.
